The documents have been annotated on two different terms, which are Donald and Trump. This is chosen since the main topic of the 500 Tweets are about this particular figure. With the nature of Tweets being short and not always containing the whole name (Donald Trump) I picked to use both terms. The annotations have been done on the two languages, Spanish and Dutch, by me and my girlfriend. I have a sufficient level of Spanish where the data has been annotated with some Google translation support (https://pypi.org/project/googletrans/, version: 3.1.0a0) and the Dutch texts have been annotated without any translation support. My girlfriend is fluent in Spanish and Dutch and has not required this translation.
Since my lab partner has left the masters study my girlfriend took over for this part of the assignment, she is a linguistics student in Leiden and did understand the task at hand.
